IV. RESPONSIBILITY

a. Unless otherwise stated, the Archives and Special Collections Librarian is responsible for collection development in the M.J. Lass Center. Recommendations are encouraged.

V. OTHER

a. There is some overlap between the collection development policy for the M. J. Lass Center and that of the University Archives and Southern Minnesota Historical Center. It is important for these areas to work together when collecting materials.

b. Duplicate Copies - Preservation and access are important aspects of the M.J. Lass Center mission. When possible, this means that two copies of a work are acquired. One is designated as a circulating copy and one is designated as a reference copy. Additional, multiple copies (3+) may be acquired on a limited basis if they fit one or more of the following guidelines:
   i. Multiple demand and heavy, continuous use
   ii. Limited printing of a potential heavy use item
   iii. Pre-1900 materials in good condition

   These multiple copies may be used as replacement copies if the need warrants it.

c. M. J. Lass Center Storage - The M. J. Lass Center is a comprehensive collection of materials relating to Minnesota that has materials dating from the nineteenth century to the present. In an effort to preserve the historical and unique materials for researchers, a secure storage area has been designated for Center materials. These materials are all listed in the library's online catalog and are available on demand under supervised conditions. The purpose of this area is to preserve materials that meet one or more of the following guidelines.

   i. Fragile or irreplaceable materials of ongoing value that cannot be replaced or mended
      i. Materials that may be damaged by leaving them in the main collection or through normal unsupervised use.
      ii. Copies 3+ of materials of ongoing value. See SECTION V OTHER B. DUPLICATE COPIES iii. The space priority in the M. J. Lass Center Storage is for materials relating to South-Central Minnesota.
      iv. Access to storage materials is available from the Archives and Special Collections staff and from the first floor reference desk.

VI. PRESERVATION
a. The preservation policies for the M.J. Lass Center are the same as those found in section XI. COLLECTION MAINTENANCE AND PRESERVATION of the General Library Collection Development Policy, with a few additional components.

i. Mending

1. If materials are too far gone for the mending option, these materials can be transferred to M.J. Lass Center Storage if they meet the storage area guidelines. See SECTION V OTHER C. M.J. LASS CENTER STORAGE. These materials are still accessible to the public and protected from further deterioration.

ii. De-selection

1. The nature of the M.J. Lass Center is that of a special collection with a comprehensive collection area. This means that most materials, once added to the collection, remain in the collection.

2. The primary de-selection that may take place in the M.J. Lass Center relates to multiple copies. The Center routinely collects two copies per title, one for reference and one for circulation. There are however numerous examples of multiple (3+) copies. If lack of use warrants it, these additional materials may be de-selected at the discretion of the Archives and Special Collections Librarian.

3. If de-selection occurs, the guidelines, set forth in XI. COLLECTION MAINTENANCE AND PRESERVATION of the General Library Collection Development Policy, are to be followed.
